SCHOOL TODAY.

Governor Albert E. Mead of Washington spent the day in Proyo yesterhospital in the forenoon and partook of a luncheon there after being shown through the wards by Superintendent Calder. Following the luncheon the address. General Superintendent Arthur E. Welby of the Rio Grande Western, placed his private car at the disposal of the visiting governor and his friends. The start from Salt Lake was made at 8 a. m. At the Provo depot the visitors were met by Mayor J. H. Fris-bie, J. T. Farrer, John W. Farrer, Albert Glazier, Judge J. E. Booth of the district court, Postmaster James E. Clove, and R. R. Irvine. Carriages conveyed the party to the asylum.

Brief Speeches at Lunch.

At the luncheon brief speeches were made by Judge Booth, who acted as toastmaster, Superintendent Calder and Governor Mead. Governor Mead was exceedingly complimentary in his comments upon the management of the

The tabernacle service was presided over by Bisop Keller of Provo, and Governor Mead was introduced as the first speaker. The governor made no reference to religion in his speech. His remarks were of a patriotic character, and he laid stress on the fact that the lines which divide the western states are more imaginary than real. He expressed his deep gratitude for the reception which had been tendered him during his visit to Utah.. The hospitality, he said, was not regarded as a personal compliment but as an evidence of the friendship felt by the people of Utah for the people of Washington. Governor Mead concluded with a tribute to Governor John C. Cutler.

The principal religious address of the day was made by Professor Osmond of the Brigham Young university. The choir rendered a fine musical pro-

The special car of the visitors was attached to the Sanpete train which left Prove for Salt Lake at 4:20. Those in the party were Acting Governor and Mrs. C. S. Tingey, Governor and Mrs. A. E. What New Year Means.

The obervance of the New Year's arrival with the Celestial is a matter of seriousness, of much praying, feasting and visiting. In the first of the programme comes the noisy wel-coming of the new year. Firecrackers, with a pop the Chinese alone can give them, are set off in steady rattle. From a fifty-foot pole erected especially for the occasion is supended 100,000 crackers. At precisely the right moment these are set off and the resulting noise constitutes what can be aptly termed a "rousing welcome." While this racket is at its height Chinese of all sizes and both sexes are offering up prayers to their great spirit, chat-tering long prayers in which they beseech forgiveness for past transgressions and future blessings. To the idol in the joss house saints and sinners bring offerings of fruits and flowers and prayers of thanks and requests. and prayers of thanks and requests.

Chinese Are Sociable.

The Chinese are sociable, but espe cially so during their New Year. Plates of fruits and candies are kept in sight on the tables in each home for those who call. A week of feasting and visting forms the most pleasant part of the celebration. Cigars, Chinese lilies, goods and odd-shaped Chinese ware form gifts which they present to American friends. The Chinese like A band furnishes weird and unceasing music during the week to those who visit the joss-house. American phonograph is an indispensable instrument, and it is no unusual thing to hear Sousa's "El Capitan" issuing through the cob-webbed window of some underground room. BULLFROG STRONGER THAN TO-NOPAH OR GOLDFIELD.

Nat Boas, San Francisco correspondent of James A. Pollock & Co., over their private wire Saturday, reviews the last week's situation in the Nevada mining stocks, as follows.

San Francisco, Jan. 27.-The market broke very badly in the early part of the week, due to non-communication from this market and outside points. This caused few, if any, buying orders to come in, and in consequence local brokers and clients holding stocks dumped thousands of shares on a weak market. Tuesday and Wednesday telegraphic communication was free and open to all points, and large buying orders commenced to come in, and there have been very good strikes made on some of the properties, which have likewise increased the bull shness of the market. Ore shipments from Tonooah have amounted to about 1,660 tons, divided as follows:

Tonopah Mining, 635 tons; Tonopah Extension, 630 tons; Montana, 110 tons; Belmont, 180 tons; Midway, 105 tons North Star, 30 tons. This is smaller than usual.
